UNIT 1. Sovereign power and citizen participation

Session 1 Meaning of terms related to citizen participation

Sovereignty:
It is the power of the people. All sovereign power belongs to the people of Kenya. Collective power of the citizens exercised at national and county levels. The citizens may exercise sovereignty or sovereign power either directly or through their democratically elected representatives. Sovereign power under the Constitution of Kenya, 2010 is delegated to the following state organs: Parliament and the legislative assemblies in the national and county government, the national executive, and the executive structures in the county governments and judiciary.

Citizen participation:
This is an action or a series of actions a citizen takes to participate in the affairs of the government or community. This may include:
- voting
- attending meetings
- participating in public or private political discussion or debate on issues,
- signing a petition on a desired government action or policy,
- volunteering in the community,
- Contributing money to a political party or candidate you would like elected into government.

Sources of sovereign power of the people
- The Constitution
- The citizens/people

Types of citizen power

Passive citizen power:
Relates to participation that does not require direct physical action; for instance. Petition signing, voting; writing letters to complain or to demand information or services.

Physical citizen power:
This requires direct physical participation such as protesting, boycotting or picketing. When exercising physical citizen power, it is important to do so in a responsible manner as provided under the Bill of Rights in Article 37 of the Constitution of Kenya, 2010, which states that every person has the right to peaceably and unarmed to assemble, demonstrate, picket and present petitions to public authorities.

Tools for Citizen Participation

Advisory Committees
- The composition of the advisory committees is driven by the purpose for which they are constituted.
- The composition should take cognizance of constitutional provision such as equity inclusiveness, equality, nondiscrimination and protection of the marginalized and gender balance.
- Utilize multiple advisory committees to provide guidance and input on a wide variety of issues (for example public safety, business, environment and health care among others).
- Members should be chosen from respective fields and/or specific areas of expertise.
- It is important to know the different members of the advisory committee to enhance engagement.

Public Petitions
Public petitions are an important avenue for those who wish to influence government on a preferred position. There are two types of petitions namely online and physical (paper) petitions. A successful petition will complement a strategy that includes direct lobbying, letter writing and media exposure. Public petitions involve:
- Writing a petition
- Lobbying
- Advocacy
- Writing a Manifesto
- Communication

Writing a Petition
Writing a petition involves identifying the target, carrying out research on the issue of concern, clear communication and how to promote the petition.

Content in the Petition
Begin with a request, followed by well researched reasons for making the request. Provide a description of relevant circumstances and links to documentation or facts that support the description. The description should contain information that suggests the petition is feasible. Do not clutter the petition with information or requests that have no clear connection to the main message.

How to Promote a Petition
To promote a petition, spread the message to friends, family, networks and through the media. Raise issues in fora and discussion groups and share with as many relevant people as possible.

Lobbying
Lobbying is the practice of engaging with government to advocate for change, request information or to hold officials accountable to their commitments on human rights or service delivery. In order to succeed in lobbying it is important that the right steps are followed.

Steps to Successful Lobbying

i. Identify and engage key stakeholders

ii. Identify key decision-makers who have the greatest influence on the decision-making process - it is important to locate contact information for key stakeholders during the initial research.

iii. Develop a target list of names of community leaders, elected politicians, government officials, and other civil society groups.

iv. Stay in touch informally with these contacts to develop a relationship trust before approaching them.

v. Identify influential individuals who support or are interested in the issue under consideration. Even if the supporters do not have decision-making power directly linked to the issue of interest, they may able to help in exerting influence on the key decision-makers. It is not only the elected representatives who hold influence. Maintain good contacts and relationship with staff who work for the elected officials.

Advocacy

Advocacy is a process by an individual or group which aims to influence decisions within political, economic, and social systems and institutions. Advocacy can include many activities that a person or organization undertakes including media campaigns, public speaking, commissioning and publishing research or conducting exit poll or the filing of an amicus brief (friend of the court). It can also be defined as any action that speaks in favor of, recommends, argues for a cause, supports or defends, or pleads on behalf of others.

Activities for Advocacy

The following is a list of suggested advocacy activities.

i. Organizing - This is building power at the grass roots mobilizing communities to take action on a given issue.

ii. Educating decision makers - Provide information on an issue to decision-manifesto ensure they are informed on a given issue facing the citizens.

iii. Creating a Platform for meeting with Decision-Makers - The communities have an opportunity to meet legislators and decision-makers face to face and discuss the issues that affect their lives. Not only do legislators receive the tools they need to represent their communities, but those communities are empowered to invest more heavily in the outcomes of policy debates.

iv. Organizing a rally - It involves mobilizing support from people on the cause being advocated for in the Community or County.

Manifestos

A manifesto is a statement of intentions, and may consist of only a few words or many pages of text. A manifesto can help to guide in making decisions and keeping the user focused on his/her goals.

Memoranda/Memorandum
It is a brief or briefs of written record to the government. The basic function of Memoranda is to make the reader aware of specific information as effectively as possible. A memorandum can be written to inform, to persuade, or to give specific feedback on a particular topic. A memorandum is written using a specific format which is accepted by the organization in which the memorandum is used. When writing a memorandum the following are included:

MEMORANDUM : Subject title
TO : The person receiving the memorandum
FROM : The person writing the memorandum
DATE : Current date
SUBJECT : A short description on the issue

- Introduction: explaining why the memorandum has been written and what issues are being raised in the memorandum.
- Body: details explaining what the issues are all about. Explain the implications of the issue

CONCLUSION : Emphasis on the call for which the action is being Proposed
MEMBERS PRESENT : Include the names of all the members party to the Memorandum

NOTE: Proof-read the memorandum or have someone else read it, before sending it out.

Communication
Communication is a process of conveying information through the exchange of ideas, feelings, intentions, attitudes and expectations. It can take different forms as follows:

Letter Writing and Email Campaigns
Letter and email campaigns can be an effective means of communication. It involves writing as an individual or getting enough people to submit letters, postcards or emails to the target audience.

Phone Calls
For effective use of phone calls:
- Always try to deliver a one-pager prior to the phone call.
- Be prompt and prepared to deliver the message in a clear, concise and compelling manner.
- End the call by asking the target audience what they intend to do about the issue.

Face to face meetings
These are the most effective ways to engage officials and elected members in a dialogue.
MODULE 3 COUNTY BUDGET MAKING PROCESS AND CITIZEN OPPORTUNITY FOR PARTICIPATION

Participating in County Development Planning Process
The county government is required by law to involve wananchi in the drawing up of county plans. The plans must reflect the priorities of every village ward or sub county. Each county is required by law to develop the following plans:

- County Integrated Development Plan(CIDP)—developed every 5 years to outline the priorities for the county’s development
- County Sectorial Plan—developed every 10 years. It outlines each of the sectors
- County Spatial Plan—developed every 10 years to guide what should be built in every area
• Annual Development Plans — developed every year to show priorities for utilization of county funds based on the CIDP
• Cities and Urban Areas Plan—developed every ten years for cities and urban areas in counties to guide their development

The county government cannot spend public money on activities or projects that are not in the plans. Annual budgets must also be guided by plans.

They may be removed from office through:
• Dismissal by the governor
• Dismissal by the governor through the County Assembly
• Resignation

You may participate in the removal of county employees by:
• Petitioning the governor, county assembly, IEBC, county public service board or the county assembly service board
• Reporting to relevant constitutional commissions and independent offices
• Picketing and demonstrating against them to push them out of office

Opportunities for public Participation

The county government is required by law to organize meetings or forums for you to contribute your ideas and review the plans.

As a citizen, you have a chance to contribute to, and participate in, developing the county development plan.

You may do this during the following processes:
• Once the budget calendar is presented to the assembly
• During budget
• Hearings consultations
• During drafting of plans, your county government should ask you for your needs and priorities
• During review and assessment of plans

How to participate

You may participate through the following ways:
• Through petitions
• Through memoranda or letters
• By attending and actively participating in sector working groups
• County economic forums
• You may participate individually or organize yourself into a community group to discuss and agree on your priorities to presenting the petition, memorandum or when the meeting is called.
You may also participate through planning structures that the county ought to establish:

- County Budget and Economic Forums (CBEF)
- Sectorial Working Groups (SWG)

Benefits of participating in planning process

It is only through participating in planning that,

- Your problems and priorities are taken into account
- that your concerns are budgeted for
- You learn about the investment and employment opportunities in your county created by the plans

Participating in making the county budget

What is a budget?

A budget is a plan of how the government intends to raise funds or revenue and spend it within a given period. The period is referred to as a Financial Year and its covers July 1 – June 30. The law requires county governments to develop budgets for each financial year.

The Constitution requires that budgets contain:

- Estimates of income, recurrent and development spending.
  This includes: Revenue (taxes, fees, and transfers), Recurrent expenditure (salaries, fuel, maintenance, etc.); Development expenditure (one-off expenses such as vehicles, projects etc.); Deficit (expenditures higher than the money the county has)

Why budget?

Budgeting is important for the following reasons:

- For better and focused planning of resources
- To ensure priorities are met
- To facilitate responsible spending
- To avoid wastage for accountability

The opportunities for public participation

- Approval – when the County Assembly passes the budget estimates to be implemented by the County Executive
- Implementation – when programmes, projects and services are implemented based on the annual plans
- Audit–follow up to ascertain whether funds were used according to the budget

Why participate in Budget making process?

It is important to participate in the budget making process of your county because:
• It is your right—the Constitution and other laws provide for public participation during the budget making process as a right for all citizens. Sovereignty belongs to all wananchi.
• It is your responsibility—As a citizen of Kenya, it is your civic duty to be involved in public affairs and government.
• Your opinion matters—your views and opinions help shape how the county is run, the priorities for the county and how revenue is collected. The government uses your views to decide how it budgets your money.
• Knowledge is power—it is important to know how your money shall be used.

How to participate in budget making process
You as a citizen can participate individually or through representation in county budget making by:
• Attending and contributing during county public participation forums including County Budget and Economic Forum (CBEF) and Sector Working Groups (SWG)
• Submitting petitions and memoranda to the assembly
• Through consulting your elected leaders (MCAs) and sharing your concerns
• Writing letters to public officials on any issue of concern
• Advocacy activities and campaigns to push your ideas.
